22^nd ANNUAL CONFERENCE
SOCIETY FOR INSTITUTIONAL & ORGANIZATIONAL ECONOMICS

June 21^{st}-23^{rd}, 2018
Montréal, Québec
Dear Fellow SIOE Members:

Welcome to HEC Montréal, the University of Montréal, and the 22nd Annual Meeting of the Society for Institutional and Organizational Economics. We have a wonderful set of contributors from our international community presenting recent advances in institutional and organizational economics using a number of different approaches and building on the research from several disciplines, including economics, political science, sociology, management, history, and law. I hope you will all enjoy the academic programming and the opportunities to interact with colleagues from around the globe.

Putting together a program like this requires the collaboration and hard work of numerous individuals. I would like to thank in particular my fellow members of the Executive Program Committee, who have worked tirelessly with the members of our Program Committee to bring together an amazing set of papers to be presented in the 56 parallel sessions on the program. I also would like to thank the local organizers, Decio Coviello and Nicolas Sahuguet for all the work they did to make sure that our members and paper presenters have the resources and facilities they need, and the refreshments and activities that they have come to expect at our annual conference. Finally, I want to thank the current SIOE President, Bentley MacLeod, for his wisdom and counsel, and Bruno Chaves, for his technical and other forms of assistance, over the last several months.

I am also very happy and excited to have Jean Tirole and Naomi Lamoreaux as our keynote speakers this year, and I thank both of them for their contribution to the conference, but also for their numerous contributions to the field of Institutional and Organizational Economics over the years.

Finally, I am very grateful for the tremendous support provided by HEC Montréal and its dean, Michel Patry, and for the additional financial support provided by CIRANO. I am also pleased to acknowledge the support of the Ross School of Business at the University of Michigan, including support provided by my assistant, Michele Semones, and financial support by the William Davidson Institute at the University of Michigan.

I look forward to seeing all of you at SIOE 2018!

Sincerely,

Francine Lafontaine
SIOE 2018 Program Chair

Naomi Lamoreaux

Naomi R. Lamoreaux is the Stanley B. Resor Professor of Economics and History at Yale University and a Research Associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research. She received her BA in history from SUNY Binghamton in 1972 and her Ph.D. in history from The Johns Hopkins University in 1979. She taught at Brown University from 1979 to 1996 and the University of California, Los Angeles from 1996 to 2010. She has written The Great Merger Movement in American Business, 1895-1904 and Insider Lending: Banks, Personal Connections, and Economic Development in Industrial New England, edited five other books, and published scores of articles on business, economic, and financial history. She also co-edited the Journal of Economic History from 1992 to 1996. Her current research interests include patenting and the market for technology in the late nineteenth and twentieth century U.S., business organizational forms and contractual freedom in the U.S. and Europe in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the public/private distinction in U.S. history, and the rise and decline of innovative regions. Professor Lamoreaux has been elected president of the Business History Conference and the Economic History Association and is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. She has been awarded the Alice Hanson Jones book prize, the Henrietta Larson, PEAES, and Arthur Cole article prizes, the Harold Williamson Prize for an outstanding business historian in mid-career, and the Cliometrics award for exceptional support to the field. She has received fellowships from the American Council of Learned Societies, the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Humanities, and grants from the Institute for New Economic Thinking, the National Science Foundation, the Social Science Research Council, and the Tobin Project.

Jean Tirole

Jean Tirole is chairman of the Jean-Jacques Laffont - Toulouse School of Economics Foundation and scientific director of the Institute for Industrial Economics. He is also affiliated with MIT, where he holds a visiting position, the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales, the Institut de France and the Institute for Advanced Study in Toulouse, which he co-founded in 2011. He received his PhD in economics from MIT in 1981, engineering degrees from Ecole Polytechnique, Paris (1976) and from Ecole Nationale des Ponts et Chaussées, Paris (1978) and a “Doctorat de 3ème cycle” in decision mathematics from the University Paris IX (1978). He holds Honorary Doctorate degrees from the Free University in Brussels (1989), the London Business School (2007), HEC Montreal (2007), the University of Mannheim (2011), the Athens School of Business and Economics (2012), the University of Rome 2 (2012), Hitotsubashi University (2013), Université de Lausanne (2013), EUI Florence (2015) and Luis U. Rome (2015). Professor Tirole’s research covers industrial organization, regulation, finance, macroeconomics and banking, and psychology-based economics. He has published over two hundred articles in international reviews, as well as twelve scientific books. Published in French in 2016, his latest book entitled Economics for the Common Good, accessible to a wide audience is under translation into a number of other languages. He is laureate of numerous international distinctions, including the 2007 CNRS gold medal and the 2014 Sveriges Riksbank prize in economic sciences in memory of Alfred Nobel.
Presidential Address

W. Bentley MacLeod is the Sami Mnaymneh Professor of Economics, Professor of International and Public Affairs, and an affiliated Law Faculty at Columbia University in the City of New York. He holds a B.A. (with distinction) and an M.Sc. in mathematics from Queen's University, Kingston, Canada and a Ph.D. in economics from the University of British Columbia, Vancouver, Canada. His research focuses on organizational economics and its application to problems in education, health and employment. His teaching career begun with a two-year stint teaching mathematics and physics at Okundi Secondary School in Nigeria, an experience that led to his interest in economics in order to understand the large variations national economic performance. After completing his PhD in economics, he taught at Queen's University, Université de Montréal, Boston College, University of Southern California, California Institute of Technology and Princeton University, before coming to Columbia University. He also has held visiting positions at CORE, Belgium, IAE, Barcelona, Russell Sage Foundation, New York and The Institute for Advanced Studies, Princeton, NJ. Prof. MacLeod is the recipient of the 2002 H. Gregg Lewis prize awarded by the Society of Labor Economists for his article "Worker Cooperation and the Ratchet" with H. Lorne Carmichael and has been a fellow of the Econometric Society since 2005, and a Fellow of the Society of Labor Economists since 2012. He is the current President of the Society of Institutional and Organizational Economics.
